

The Los Angeles Student-Athlete Symposium 2016 is designed to educate and empower high school student-athletes located in the Southern California region. The participants will have the opportunity to engage in dialogue on a variety of topics including: academic strategies, college recruiting, strength and conditioning, and other issues pertinent to the student-athlete. The premise of the symposium is to focus on two essential goals. First, it is to stress the importance of academic achievement above all else. We want all participants to fully understand that performing your very best and being a great asset to your team's success should be desired but reaching your full potential in the classroom is what is absolutely necessary. The second goal of the symposium is to create awareness about the complicated process of becoming a student-athlete in college. The symposium participants will learn about college applications, recruiting timelines, standardized tests (ACT & SAT) and the various different levels of athletic competition after high school (Division 1,2,3, NAIA, JC, prep school). The full day event will be a valuable experience that any high school student-athlete will benefit from. The workshop descriptions are listed below.
